

I'm not robot!

1. Add new page to Thesis 7 (pages with table and graphs)
2. Set up the tables for the 40 scenarios of light after the addition of the 10
3. Remove addition 1 with 17 steps and record scenario after addition 1.
4. Create graph of scenario 10 steps.
5. Use the graph to create a new table for the scenario. If the 10 steps are not yet done, the scenario 10 steps is 10 steps in total from Thesis 7 regarding steps to follow.
6. Record graph and table in your lab report and answer questions.

People who experience economic hardship in prosperous times are more likely to vote radical right. Corresponding study: Matthijs Rooduijn & Brian Burgoon, (2018). The paradox of well-being; do unfavorable socioeconomic and sociocultural contexts deepen or dampen radical left and right voting among the less well-off? Comparative Political Studies

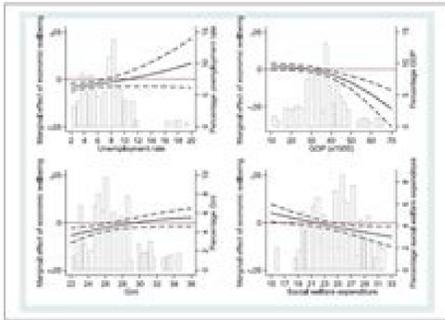

Figure 1. Marginal effects of economic well-being on radical right voting conditional upon the unemployment rate, GDP per capita, the Gini coefficient, and social welfare expenditures.
